Quiet Days and Retreats 2013

SUPPORTING TEACHERS, RESEARCHERS AND GENERAL STAFF

Quiet Days and Retreats provide space to...
- interact with other researchers, teachers and general staff across a range of disciplines
- pause, relax, reflect and reconnect with what you really care about
- discern focus areas for research and teaching
- allow creative ideas to surface
- reconnect with professional passion and sense of vocation
- renew identity
- restore purposefulness
- listen more effectively to self and others

Previous participants comments
“...is been encouraging for the possibilities of university teaching, lifting us above the limiting busyness of everyday life. Not a ‘how to’ time but a time of deepening inner resources.”

“This retreat provided a rare opportunity to quietly reflect on what’s going on for me internally as a teacher, helped by excellent facilitators and a wonderful peaceful location.”

“The retreat is expertly and compassionately structured. It provides a rare chance to be brought back to the rawness and passion that inspire great teaching.”

“The benefits of this retreat to my personal and professional life have been immense.”

Quiet Days
Friday 5 April 2013, 8.30am–4.00pm
Thursday 27 June 2013, 8.30am–4.00pm

Retreat Dates
25–27 November 2013

Experience a sense of cross faculty community and collaboration in co-created reflective spaces.

Michael Wood has been facilitating retreats of this kind with small groups of staff at UWA since 2008. These groups continue to meet on a regular basis, deepening trust and community.

You may be eligible for professional development funding support.

To register your interest please contact
Michael Wood
UWA Chaplain
Tel: +61 8 6488 4762
Email: michael.wood@uwa.edu.au

ACHIEVE INTERNATIONAL EXCELLENCE